

LRS Intelligent Document Bundling

Our smart, unified print delivery solution keeps your supply chain moving.

Print Smart. Print Simple.

Print Smart. Print Simple

Always accurate

When documents critical to your business operation are complex to manage, access, collate, and deliver, this can often lead to inefficiencies that affect the whole supply chain. Intelligent Document Bundling (IDB) from LRS automates business processes that involve multiple documents and in turn, improves both their reliability and efficiency.

Tackle inefficient processes

Document workflow processes are used in almost any large organization. Whether you work with the global logistics chain, with health and safety documents (HazMat), or Human Resources; you will often find your work hours are hindered by inefficient processes.

You are probably too familiar with the problems and time required in the output management life cycle. Documents generated from different applications with different formats, hinder the process until all parts of the document set are generated correctly. Collecting, sequencing, and collating documents each day incurs labor costs - not to mention the possibility of human error.

Print Smart. Print Simple.

IDB empowers organizations by delivering compiled document bundles from multiple applications on multiple platforms. It enables you to improve your business performance metrics, optimize the "order to cash" process, and most importantly enhance service to satisfy your customers.

Retrieve, merge, enhance and deliver

IDB automates the retrieval, sequencing, transforming, merging, and enhancing of multiple input documents into a single output document. The input can reside in any location and in different data formats. With IDB you can:

- Retrieve documents from any repository, file share or web location
- Sequence documents into the right order
- Transform and merge into a single document format
- Enhance with dynamic content such as overlays, barcodes, or variable text

- Deliver documents to single or multiple destinations such as printers, email, or archives - protecting document integrity and content
- Monitor and control document delivery

With IDB, your organization will be able to create bundled sets of customized documents, from dispatch and delivery notes to invoices, with ease, and in record time.

Intelligent Documentation Bundling in Action

Customer: German Pharmaceutical Company

The LRS customer is one of the top three leading generics producers worldwide. Following their opening of a new logistics centre, they required an output solution that was efficient and robust.

The challenge:

- To establish a fully automated shipping process, including the consolidated printing of all shipping documentation within a short period of time. Their exact requirement was packing and documentation of 890 shipments in one hour.
- Difficult-to-administer, diverse, printing environment in the areas of purchasing, sales, finance and controlling

The process:

- Rapid installation within five working days
- Seamless interconnection with existing SAP® applications
- Competent, expert support from LRS at all times

Leaner work processes, assured delivery

The results of IDB speak for themselves:

- Document bundles are delivered to the correct printer, in the correct sequence, and provide success or error feedback to SAP or other originating applications
- Users are provided with a flexible, intuitive solution to help them quickly and easily customize automated processes
- Business processes are improved and streamlined, eliminating manual workflows and assuring delivery at the right time
- A smart solution leading to profits for your organization; IDC survey showed there were average savings of $50,000 per 100 printers

Built with you in mind

Because no two customers have the same business needs, the LRS® software offers a high degree of customization and flexibility. Our document experts work with customer teams to identify business requirements and develop a scalable solution that meets your current business needs and adapts to your ever-changing requirements as your business grows.

Discover the benefits of Intelligent Document Bundling in your organization.

Print Smart. Print Simple. with Intelligent Document Bundling

Visit: www.lrsoutputmanagement.com/Info/Intelligent-Document-Bundling to learn more about our solutions, and for further information or to request a demo, get in touch with our document experts.

Print Smart. Print Simple.